

How focusing and dispersion influence the solution of certain linear and nonlinear equations

Christopher Sogge
Johns Hopkins University

Abstract: In this survey, I shall present several estimates whose strength depends on whether certain types of dispersion are present and certain types of focusing are absent. These include size estimates for eigenfunctions, and Strichartz estimates both in manifolds without boundary and manifolds with boundary. I shall also go over some applications to the theory of nonlinear hyperbolic equations.